

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A batten is provided for supporting suspended loads, wherein the batten has a cross section including a peripheral wall having linear and curvilinear segments. The cross section includes channel forming flanges extending along a length of the batten for receiving a lift line clamp.